Bravo!
Like 8,000 other Indian students and over 3,25,000 international students, you have chosen France for your higher education.

Bon choix!
France is known as a romantic destination but, as you’ll soon find out, France is also the best destination for studies. Here’s why!

France is a world leader in education.
The French government invests heavily in higher education, funds which international students also benefit from. The highest quality of education and research at the most affordable tuition fees, that's France for you!

France benefits from a long, proud tradition of scientific and technological research and innovation that underpins the nation's achievements in fields such as aeronautics and space, transportation, electronics, telecommunication, chemistry, biotechnology, health and mathematics.

France also offers a new and exciting way of life — one that you’re about to experience — in which a rich culture (music, film, theatre, festivals), a vibrant history (time-defying monuments and architecture), a delectable cuisine (wine, bread, cheese, from farm to table), and a diverse geography will contribute to the memories you will cherish throughout your life.

Bienvenue!
Welcome to France, welcome to a bright future!
Mon choix, le bon choix

France is a country with a dynamic economy and an unparalleled vibrant culture. France, with its myriad opportunities and experiences, will contribute significantly in shaping you and your career.

MONLOGEMENT

Finding accommodation

Before looking for housing in France, students must decide, keeping in mind their finances and the length of their programme, the kind of housing which suits them the best. Housing is relatively expensive in France, but international students, just like French students, can avail benefits under housing assistance provided by the French government.

Note that it is much more convenient and reassuring to have confirmed accommodation before your arrival.

TIPS

Most universities/schools have a dedicated department for international student accommodation.

You can also check services provided by the local authorities in the city where you will live.

FOR MORE INFO

UNIVERSITY RESIDENCE HALLS

Located on campus or in town, university residences are run by France's regional student service centres (CROUS, Centres régionaux des œuvres universitaires et scolaires). The residences feature furnished and well-equipped rooms and studios. Some residences have shared bathrooms / kitchens. The monthly rent is between €250 and €600. We advise you to look for accommodation early to get the best deals!

www.cnous.fr (Centre National des Oeuvres Universitaires et Scolaires)

Accommodation in university residences is mainly reserved for recipients of French government scholarships and students who have come through exchange programmes and organized mobility programmes.

PRIVATELY OPERATED STUDENT HOUSING

Private accommodations catering to students can be found in most big cities. Rents range from €650 to €900 per month in Paris and from €400 to €600 elsewhere.

www.adele.org
www.fac-habitat.com

ROOMS IN PRIVATE HOUSES

Suitable for short stays, renting a furnished room in a private home costs approx. €200 a week in Paris with breakfast, or €300 with breakfast and dinner. These costs are comparatively lower in other cities.

PRIVATE RENTALS

Tenants are generally required to pay a security deposit before taking the accommodation. Rents are high, especially in large cities, and more so in Paris. Tenants are likely to be asked to show proof that their monthly income is at least three times the rental amount.

BEWARE OF SCAMS!

Never pay the rent in advance before leaving your country.

PACKAGE DEAL

There are many associations which offer package deals for long stays covering housing, banking, insurance, telephone, etc. and other conveniences (discounts at some restaurants, gyms, beauty salons, etc.). These are private, paid services.

SHARED RENTALS, KNOWN IN FRENCH AS “COLOCATION”

House rentals to groups: Several individuals may enter into a lease with a house owner, with each having equal rights to the accommodation. No special regulations apply to such rentals. All tenants have the same rights and obligations, as does a single tenant who takes out a lease. To apply for housing assistance, your name must appear on the lease agreement.

Many ads are posted on specialised house rental websites:

Free websites:

- www.colocationfrance.fr

Websites that charge a fee:
- www.appartager.com

FINANCIAL HOUSING ASSISTANCE

International students, like French students, may be eligible for housing assistance. There are two types of subsidies:

ALS: allocation de logement à caractère social
APL: aide personnalisée au logement

Students may apply for either of these, depending on the type of accommodation chosen. The amount of assistance varies according to the rent and other specific criteria. If you are sharing an apartment, you and your flatmate/roommate may both avail benefits, provided that both your names appear on the lease agreement.

Information and eligibility criteria for the same can be obtained from the assigned CAF (Caisse d’Allocations Familiales) family assistance fund.

For more information, visit the website visale.fr

For more information, log on to: www.caf.fr

TIPS

In order to facilitate access to housing, the French government proposes a State insurance for students without guarantor.

PREPARING FOR MY DEPARTURE

Visit the website of your host institution to identify the contact person(s) with whom you can correspond for all matters related to your arrival (enrolment procedures and services, international students affairs and student welfare). Start by confirming your admission. You must also inform them if you plan to arrive later than required by the course calendar.

PREPARING MY VISA APPLICATION

Visa procedures for Indian students have been greatly simplified. Depending on the duration of your studies in France, select the type of visa you should apply for.

SHORT-STAY VISAS (LESS THAN 90 DAYS)

For a stay of less than 90 days in France, students are exempted from the Campus France procedure. Short-stay visas are governed by European regulations. A non-renewable short-stay visa allows a stay of up to 3 months in the 26-country Schengen area. Holders of this visa do not require a French residence permit.

Short-term visa for students attending interviews or appearing for entrance tests:

This visa entitles the holder to enter France for the purpose of attending an interview or appearing for an entrance test at an institution of higher education. If successful, students in this category may apply for a 1-year renewable residence permit in France and will not be required to return to their home country to do so.

IMPORTANT

BON VOYAGE!

Before leaving
Many institutions offer several services to assist incoming international students. These services vary but often include an airport pickup, reserved housing, personalized mentoring and special language classes.

SURVIVING THE FIRST FEW DAYS
Make sure you have a phone that works when you arrive in France. Save your contact numbers: accommodation, university and emergency numbers. Also make sure that you have an international credit / debit / Forex card to allow you to withdraw money from ATMs in France. It is advisable to carry cash to pay for transportation from the airport to your accommodation. You will find foreign exchange offices “bureaux de change” at airports, railway stations, and close to bus stations.

FIND OUT ABOUT FRESHMEN ORIENTATION PROGRAMMES
Inquire from your host university about new students orientation events that may be planned: welcome day, integration week, etc. and attend them. You will not only receive valuable information, but also make new friends!

If you have chosen a university residence, you will receive your room key from the reception. Check the opening hours (N.B: most reception desks close at 4.00 pm and are not open on weekends). Inform the owner of your accommodation or the residence about your arrival.

KNOW YOUR REGION

TIPS
France has many regions to explore. Each region has its own character and charm with plenty of outstanding towns and villages.

Metropolitan France has been divided into 13 different regions, which are in turn subdivided into departments. Remember that different departments have different administrative offices! Before arriving in France, find out the department your host city belongs to. This will be useful for when you begin your paperwork.

WHAT SHOULD I PACK?

Wishing to fit too much into our suitcase, we often forget the basics. Remember to carry:

- One or two adapters for your electrical devices: phones, tablets, laptop, etc. Voltage in France is 220V.

- Get ready to walk much more than one normally does in India. It is imperative to pack a comfortable pair of shoes.

- If you are undergoing a specific medical treatment, take enough prescription drugs for the length of your stay. Make sure you are allowed to bring them into the country and carry with you either the prescription or a note from the doctor.

- Make sure you carry weather-appropriate clothing. Refer to www.meteofrance.com to know the weather in your host city.

FOR MORE INFO

Be aware that airports have strict security requirements for safety reasons.

If you are departing from India with expensive items (such as computers, cameras and video cameras) and you intend to bring them back to India, you are expected to declare these items to the Customs.

Once registered, you do not need to declare these articles to Customs on your return to India but you should keep the registration form handy in case Customs authorities have any questions.

Never carry items for strangers and make sure that you have packed your own suitcases and know what they contain. Make sure you are not carrying any sharp objects or items which may be considered as weapons (nail files, nail scissors, pen knife, etc.)

IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS TO CARRY ALONG

You will need certain documents to complete administrative formalities on your arrival in France.

Here’s an indicative list for your reference:

- Passport with a valid visa.
- Your travel insurance must cover medical expenses, financial default of travel service providers, and other losses incurred while traveling, whether within one’s own country, or internationally. French consular authorities require the insurance policy to cover your travel and have a repatriation clause.
- Apostille* on original birth certificate.
- Birth certificate translated in French (contact the Alliance Française network in India for obtaining an authorised official translation).
- Proof of medical insurance.
- Proof of previous studies undertaken: most recent academic degrees and diplomas and corresponding transcripts and language test (English or French, depending on the language of your chosen study programme).
- Proof of accommodation.

Scan and send copies of important documents to your mailbox.

TIPS

Scan and send copies of important documents to your mailbox.

*Apostille is a legal verification to prove the authenticity of a document and is issued by the Ministry of External Affairs in Delhi, Chennai, Hyderabad, Kolkata and Guwahati. Procedure:

Get your birth certificate verified at the municipal office, as it should first be authenticated by the designated authorities of the State/Union Territory from where the document has been issued. If you do not have a birth certificate, contact the concerned municipal office. No other document such as an affidavit or any other notarised document is valid. Try to get two originals if possible (leave one behind at home, in case of loss). The original document is to be submitted directly to the five outsourced agencies of the MEA (www.mea.gov.in/legalization-ofdocuments.htm) along with a photocopy of the document and a photocopy of the applicant’s passport. The apostille seal will only be stamped on the original birth certificate, not on photocopies.
Once you arrive in France, you must register at your new university or institution.

Public Universities

All students enrolling at public universities are required to register in person at the beginning of each academic year.

Before enrolling, you are required to make a payment of 90 Euros at the government student service office (called CROUS):

You need to print the payment slip and keep it safely.

The registration process consists of two steps:

Administrative registration (known in French as “inscription administrative”):

- Carry the printed CROUS attestation with you.
- Pay the applicable fees, if any.
- Subscribe to a national student healthcare plan.
- After completing the above, you will receive your student ID card.

For related information, visit your host institution’s website prior to departure.

Academic registration (known in French as “inscription pédagogique”):

In the second phase of the process, you need to:

- Choose/Register for courses.
- Get information on class/exam schedules.
- Familiarise yourself with assessment methods.

Other French Higher Education Institutions

Private French institutions have their own registration procedures, which are normally communicated to students well before the beginning of the academic year.

Make a note of any documents that you may be asked to provide at the time of registration. You may be required to present original documents.

Mobile Plans

Contract mobile phone

“Forfaits avec engagement” are mobile plans taken out for a minimum duration, usually 12 or 24 months, depending on the plan. The subscription is limited to a certain number of hours each month, this limit can be removed, if required. You may also choose from a number of unlimited plans. Some plans offer a new mobile phone at a reduced price. Bills are paid monthly by debiting your associated bank account.

The main mobile telephone providers are: Bouygues Telecom, Orange, SFR, and Free.

Without a contract

“Forfait sans engagement” are mobile plans without a minimum duration. The mobile subscription is managed entirely online, and a new mobile phone at a reduced price is generally not included in the subscription. The major service providers offer low-cost plans including basic plans as well as advanced packages which offer unlimited phone calls, unlimited text messages, international calls and Internet: SFR - Série Red, Orange - Sosh, Free, Virgin Mobile, etc.

Prepaid offers

Prepaid offers, or pay as you go, do not require a subscription. After buying the SIM card and prepaid credit, calls can be made immediately.

Internet

There are many internet providers in France which offer packages with ADSL, VDSL or optical fibre (plus TV and telephone) for roughly the same price. Comprehensive information on ADSL availability in France, price and service comparisons can be found on the Ariase website Ariase.com (in French).

A few internet access providers:

If you stay in France for more than 3 months, you must open an account in a bank. The following documents will be required to open an account:

- passport;
- visa de long séjour (‘long-stay visa’) which serves as a titre de séjour (‘residence permit’) (VLS/TS);
- proof of address (gas, electricity or telephone bill or even a rent receipt).

The bank will also ask you for a copy of your signature to enable them to confirm the authenticity of any cheques to be processed.

Check if your bank at home has ties with a French banking network, as this may make it easier for you to open an account (perhaps even before you arrive in France) and transfer funds.

Your bank will provide you with copies of your account information (relevés d’identité bancaire, RIBs) which are useful when it comes to having your salary transferred to your account or switching any standing direct debits you may have authorised (rent, phone bill, etc.). You can then start using your current account and request a bank card and a chequebook.

The major bank cards (Visa and Mastercard) are accepted by most French businesses for transactions in excess of €15. Cash transactions must be made in Euros.

Exchange Rates

We advise you to go through a trusted agency, such as our sponsor - Thomas Cook. For more information on their exchange rates, visit their website:

www.thomascook.in/Best-Live-Rates
You can always exchange money at the airport from which you are departing. Airport exchange rates are normally on the higher side, but if you are exchanging a small amount of money, the difference is minimal.

Cash
We suggest you carry approximately 1000 Euros with you. This will save you time and trouble when you arrive. This money will be useful for your initial expenses.

ATMs
They are often open 24 hours and the transaction charges are minimal. Ensure that your card is accepted in France (Visa, Mastercard, etc.)
Debit cards associated to a savings account will NOT work in ATMs abroad. Talk to your bank about the options available to you abroad. Keep the customer service phone numbers on hand to call for assistance if your card gets blocked. (It is advisable to obtain the contact details of an individual from the bank in your home country.)
Medical assistance

Medical insurance
All students enrolled in a French institution for a programme of at least 3 months’ duration must subscribe to the social security system known as “caisses primaires d’assurance maladie” (or CPAMs). Register on: http://etudiant-etranger.ameli.fr
On average, social security covers about 70% of the expenses related to healthcare. Students may obtain additional health insurance coverage. The three largest student group health plans are:
La Mutuelle des Étudiants: www.lmde.fr, active throughout France;
Emevia, an association of regional student health plans: www.emevia.com;

Social security vocabulary

Below is a useful guide explaining specific terminologies used in the French social security health insurance system:

Carte Vitale - National health insurance card:

The Carte Vitale (green health card) is the national insurance card issued to individuals who are 16 years of age and above, giving them individual access to subscription and benefits of the French health insurance system - an affiliation to CPAM.

Médecin traitant - Primary care physician:

The primary care physician’s role is to coordinate the different consultations and tests necessary for the health of the patient (parcours de soins). The primary care physician is in most cases a General Practitioner. For any medical issue, a patient should first visit their primary care physician who will refer the patient to the concerned medical professional.

Mutuelle - Mutual insurance company:

A mutuelle is an organisation that provides top-up or complementary health insurance to its members for a monthly payment. A top-up insurance allows for greater reimbursement of healthcare expenses by complementing the percentage reimbursed by Social Security.

Ticket modérateur - Top-up:

The top-up is the part of the charges not covered by health insurance and is paid either by the patient or covered under the additional medical insurance.

Tiers-payant - Third-party payment:

This is when the top-up insurance automatically pays part of or the entire sum spent on health care. It applies generally to payment for prescription medicines prescribed by a doctor. The pharmacist is reimbursed directly by the top-up insurance and the social security. Third-party payments can include other services, particularly hospitalisation costs, once agreed to by the insurance company.

TRAVELLING IN FRANCE

Public transit, bicycle or car: you can choose how to get around every day. As a student, you can often subscribe for a reduced rate.

Public Transit
In most French cities, public transit generally involves metro, buses and tramways. The networks are usually dense in the town centre, and easy to take. Don’t hesitate to ask other students about timetables and stops. Transit companies often have an office on campus where you can sign up for the monthly or yearly pass when the school year starts.

Students and/or those under 26 qualify for special fares when subscribing for public transit. To get these fares, you usually have to show your student card or identity card when subscribing.

TAKING THE TRAIN
France has one of the most effective rail networks in the world. It is managed by the SNCF (Société Nationale des Chemins de fer français – French National Railway Company). Its mobile application lets you reserve tickets without having to print them out.

GOING BY BUS
The bus goes to lots of destinations in France and Europe with very attractive fares. Unlike the train, the price remains low even at the last minute. Reclining seats, Wi-fi, electric sockets: buses are getting more comfortable with each passing year.

TRAVELLING BY PLANE
There are about 45 airports connecting the different cities in France. There are many low-cost airlines in France. Air France also has a low-cost subsidiary, Transavia, and has created Hop!, a subsidiary specialised in domestic flights. It offers a youth card for those aged 12-24 and a weekend card starting at 69 euros.

DRIVING IN FRANCE
You can drive in France if you have a European driver’s licence or an international driver’s licence (if you are not European). Good to know: the French drive on the right with the steering wheel on the left, and seatbelts must be worn in front and in back.

Students must remember not to compromise their academics in an effort to obtain additional financial assistance through part-time jobs.

Stay in Touch: France Alumni
https://www.francealumni.fr/en/position/india/

France Alumni was launched in India in 2016 by the Embassy of France. It is an initiative to reunite and reconnect former students from France through a digital platform. The 6300+ alumni registered have direct access to the representatives of more than 550 French companies operating in India, which seek young talent.

SPECIAL VISA DESIGNED FOR ALUMNI

2-Year Extension Visa
Indian students in France can extend their stay in the country after the completion of their studies.

A bilateral agreement was signed during the visit of Prime Minister Narendra Modi in 2015. The visa allows Indian students in France to extend their stay for an additional 24 months after the completion of their studies: a 12-month visa renewable once for a period of 12 months.

5-Year visa
In July 2013, the Ambassador of France to India decided to facilitate travel to France for Indian citizens residing in India who hold post-graduate degrees from France irrespective of the year of graduation.

The 5-year visa allows its holders to stay in the Schengen area for up to 90 days, with a 90-day gap between stays. Indian alumni of Indo-French dual degree programmes (PG) are eligible to apply as well. Alumni from all generations are eligible. Spouses and children of the alumni are also eligible for a visa under this initiative.

Talent Passport
In February 2016, France established the “Talent Passport,” a new type of multi-year residence permit (4 years) for skilled foreigners who wish to live in France.

It has been conceived principally for researchers, artists, employees on assignments abroad as well as internationally renowned public figures. Foreign students who hold such a permit will find it easier to work in France after finishing their studies. The benefits of the Talent Passport also extend to their spouses, who are allowed to work in France as well.

THE BANK  Bank procedures you should be familiar with

Opening a bank account
If you have a bank account in your country of origin, inquire before leaving if your bank has a partnership with a bank in France. It will make things easier for you.

Why open a bank account?
If you plan to reside for more than three months in France, it is advisable to open a bank account. Some organisations, such as CAF or the public healthcare system, will only reimburse you through bank transfer to a French bank account. A bank account will also be useful for setting up an automated monthly payment of your recurring charges.

How long does it take?
You can get a bank card and a checkbook within 15 days.

What documentation is needed?
An identity document (ID): a valid passport or national identity card.
Your residence permit or a receipt that proves that your request is being processed, for non-European students.
Proof of accommodation: a rent receipt, a utility bill, or a letter from the owner of the accommodation, together with a photocopy of his or her identity card.
A photocopy of your student ID card.
If you have not received it yet, you can provide your enrolment certificate, which you can get from the enrolment office (“le service de scolarité”).
A deposit of €15 or more is required to open an account, which can be paid in traveller’s cheques or cash.

How to open an account?
Make an appointment with a bank employee in order to sign your bank account contract (often called a “convention” in French). While taking the appointment, ask for both confirmation and further details on the documentation needed to open the account. If you are missing anything, you won’t be able to sign the contract and will have to take another appointment.

GOOD TO KNOW
There are two kinds of bank cards: a cash-only card that only lets you withdraw money from ATMs; a payment card which allows you to also pay for purchases at shops.
Bank cards are subject to annual charges. The charges vary depending on the bank, costing on average between €15-40 per year. To help you compare banking services, refer to: www.comparer-lesbanques.com

GLOSSARY OF BANK RELATED TERMS

“Autorisation de prélèvement” (Direct Debit)
Bank transaction by which you authorise a specific person or organisations to receive payments from your account, be it in one or more instalments. Direct Debit is often used to pay for monthly recurring costs such as a transportation pass, insurance, etc.
“Carte de paiement” (Debit card or Credit card)
The card that allows the holder to make purchases and withdraw money from cash machines (ATMs). There are two types of payment: immediate debit (every purchase is instantly debited from your account) and deferred debit (the total of all purchases is debited once each month).

“Carte de retrait” (Cash card)
This card can only be used for withdrawing money from ATMs or bank counters. It cannot be used to pay for purchases.

“Chèque” (Cheque)
A means of payment that is valid for 1 year and 8 days from the date it is signed. Beyond that period, it will be denied for payment. A cheque is usually used to pay a deposit, rent or bills - in case you have chosen not to automate these payments through monthly direct debits.

“Découvert” (Overdraft)
An account is said to be à “découvert” or “débiteure” (overdrawn) when its balance is below zero. Such an overdraft may be authorised up to a certain amount (on the basis of an agreement previously signed with your bank), or not authorised altogether. In either case, the customer must pay overdraft charges to the bank, which are calculated on a daily basis.

“Distributeur automatique de billets (Dab)” (Cash machine or ATM)
Basically an ATM which allows students to withdraw money from their accounts through the use of a bank card.

“Intérêts débiteurs” or “agios” (Overdraft charges)
Interests earned by the bank on an account with a negative balance. Overdraft charges are calculated on a daily basis. Even authorised overdrafts are subject to these charges.

“Opposition”
An operation performed to block a check or bank card, in case of a suspicious transaction or when either of them goes missing. By means of an "opposition", you give your bank instruction to block all debit transactions.

“Virement” (Wire Transfer)
A means of payment by which you order your bank to credit the account of a payee. The transfer may be a one-time operation or a periodic one, such as for automated monthly payment of your rent.

“Relevé d’identité bancaire” (RIB) (Bank account details)
A document issued by the bank which serves as the "identity card" of your account. It can be used to set up monthly payments via Direct Debit (to pay for your travel pass, for instance) or to receive payments (from the Social Security, for example, which can pay your benefits directly into your account). The RIB usually appears at the end of a chequebook or at the top of a bank statement.
ACCOMMODATION
Deciphering Property Rental Advertisements

TYPES OF HOUSING

“Chambre de bonne” or “Studette”
A room or small studio located on the top floor of a building. Make sure it has an area of at least 9 square metres in order to be eligible for housing assistance. The shower and/or toilet are usually located in the corridor and are shared.

Studio Apartment
These apartments have only one large room which includes a kitchenette. Only the bathroom and toilet are separate.

F1 or T1 Apartment
In such accommodation, the kitchen is separate. ‘F’ or ‘T’ followed by a number indicates the number of other rooms (“pièces”). The kitchen, bathroom, toilet, entrance and hallways are not counted in the number of “pièces”. For example, an F2 has a living room, one bedroom, a kitchen, a bathroom and a toilet (which might or might not be separate from the bathroom).

Empty Accommodation
The accommodation can be completely empty or have an equipped kitchen. Ask the landlord for specifications. The following resources can help you equip and furnish your place at a low cost: Emmaüs - www.emmaus-france.org; Le bon coin - www.leboncoin.fr; garage sales and flea markets (“brocante”) - www.vide-greniers.org

Furnished Accommodation
The accommodation will include a bed, a fully equipped kitchen and some other furniture. However, no legislation states what furniture needs to be included for the accommodation to qualify as furnished. You will have to inquire with the owner in order to assess how well equipped it is: kitchen utensils, dishes, blankets, etc.

TERMS YOU SHOULD KNOW

M² (Square Metres)
The surface area of an accommodation is expressed in square metres (m²) in France. The surface area specified is often followed by the words “Loi Carrez”, which is the name of the law that regulates surface area measurements in France.
“Les charges” (Utility expenses)
Rent prices are indicated either as exclusive of expenses (HC or HT) or with utility charges included (CC or TCC). The rental price always covers building maintenance expenses and rental taxes. Generally, hot water is also included, ask your landlord to be sure.
For homes with collective heating - that is to say, where heating is managed by the association of co-owners of the building - the charges in addition to your rent will be higher, but your gas or electricity bills will be lower. For homes with individual heating, you will be paying for additional gas or electricity to keep warm. An estimate of your consumption will be calculated by the electric and/or gas companies. You can expect to pay an average of 30 euros per month for each. Your electricity and/or gas meters will be read regularly by technicians to check your actual consumption. After a period of time, your bill will be adjusted accordingly: either you will be reimbursed, if you have paid more than your actual consumption, or you will be charged for the additional units consumed.
The main gas and electricity companies in France are:
- EDF-GDF: www.bleuciel.edf.com
- Direct-Energy: www.direct-energie.com
- Poweo: www.poweo.fr

“La caution” (Security deposit)
Before taking possession of a rental property, you must pay the first month’s rent, a security deposit (equivalent to one month's rent excluding charges (HC)), and a mandatory home insurance policy.

“La taxe d’habitation” (Residence tax)
Ask if your home is subject to housing tax, as well as its approximate amount. The housing tax is tax on the property (payable annually) that contributes funding for services provided by the community.

“L’état des lieux” (Entry/exit inventory)
An inventory that documents the state of the property must be made, both when taking possession of and when handing back rental property. The initial inventory must be made in the presence of both tenant and landlord, during handover of the keys. It consists of writing down the general condition of the apartment (cleanliness, electrical fittings, heating, walls, floors, bathrooms, toilets, faucets, etc.). Both initial and final inventories must be prepared with care. The comparison of these two documents will serve as a reference for identifying damaged items and determining responsibilities. The owner will decide on the basis of this document whether to return a part of or the entire amount of your security deposit when you leave the property.

"Le délai de préavis" (The notice period)
Before leaving the property, make sure you give notice to your landlord within the time period established by law. The owner will be entitled to claim rent for the months due if you do not respect this notice period. The notice period is one month for furnished accommodation and three months for empty accommodation. Inform about your departure by letter, which you must send by registered mail with acknowledgment due (see Fact Sheet N°4).
French territory is divided into four administrative levels:

- communes (municipalities),
- intercommunalités (intermunicipal consortia),
- departments and regions.

The department is the term you will come across frequently when carrying out administrative procedures.

The part of France located in Europe (termed “France métropolitaine”) consists of 95 departments, numbered 1-95.

The city of Paris is a full department in its own right, identified by the number 75.

The CAF, the “Assurance maladie” (public health insurance), and the processing of visa and residence permits are all departmental services, meaning they are managed at the department level.

You will have to go to the prefecture of the department you reside in to consult for all administrative services.

The Post Office (“La Poste”)

Stamps can be bought at post offices, which are generally open from Monday to Friday from 8:00 to 19:00 and on Saturday from 8:00 to 12:00, or at tobacco shops (“le tabac”). They can be bought individually (at La Poste) or as a booklet of 10 (at La Poste and tobacco shops).

The price varies depending on the weight of the parcel being sent and the type of delivery requested (there are different tracking levels). For a standard letter weighing less than 20 grams, a delivery within France will cost you € 0.61; within Europe, € 0.83; and elsewhere in the world, € 0.98. — For more information: www.laposte.fr (under “Particulier” > “Envoyer et recevoir du courrier ou un colis”).

Drinking coffee
If you order a coffee, you will automatically be served an “expresso”. If you want a large cup of coffee, order an “allongé”. If, on the contrary, you would like stronger coffee, order a “café serré”. A “noisette” (literally meaning “hazelnut”) is an expresso with very little milk (equivalent to the Italian macchiato). A “café crème” or “café au lait” is a latte (large cup). A “déca” (decaf) or “décaféiné” (decaffeinated) is coffee without caffeine.

To tip or not to tip?
Tipping is not compulsory. Service charges are always included in the price. Nevertheless, tips are always appreciated!

Laws on tobacco and alcohol
It is prohibited to smoke in public places. This prohibition thus applies to academic buildings; restaurants and cafés with the exception of terraces (some terraces are sheltered in winter and remain accessible to smokers); metro and RER stations; etc. It is prohibited to drive with alcohol exceeding the legal limit. The alcohol level in blood is measured in grams of alcohol per litre of blood or milligrams per litre of exhaled air. The legal limit is 0.5 grams per litre of blood, or 0.25 mg per litre of exhaled air, which corresponds to two drinks served in a bar. It is also illegal to be drunk in public spaces.

Launderettes
If you stay at a university residence, you will usually find it equipped with washing machines for collective use. A few studios are also equipped with a washing machine. You will also find self-service launderettes almost everywhere. Prices vary, but expect to pay on average € 3.50 for using a washing machine and € 0.50 per 30 minutes for a dryer.

2-Year Extension Visa

Indian students in France can extend their stay in the country after the completion of their studies. A bilateral agreement was signed during the visit of Prime Minister Narendra Modi in 2015. The visa allows Indian students in France to extend their stay for an additional 24 months after the completion of their studies: a 12-month visa renewable once for a period of 12 months.

5-Year visa

In July 2013, the Ambassador of France to India decided to facilitate travel to France for Indian citizens residing in India who hold post-graduate degrees from France irrespective of the year of graduation. The 5-year visa allows its holders to stay in the Schengen area for up to 90 days, with a 90-day gap between stays. Indian alumni of Indo-French dual degree programmes (PG) are eligible to apply as well. Alumni from all generations are eligible. Spouses and children of the alumni are also eligible for a visa under this initiative.

Talent Passport

In February 2016, France established the “Talent Passport,” a new type of multi-year residence permit (4 years) for skilled foreigners who wish to live in France. It has been conceived principally for researchers, artists, employees on assignments abroad as well as internationally renowned public figures. Foreign students who hold such a permit will find it easier to work in France after finishing their studies. The benefits of the Talent Passport also extend to their spouses, who are allowed to work in France as well.
